Hughes Federal Credit Union Earns a Top Ranking in Forbes' 2024 Best-In-State Credit Unions List

Tucson, AZ, July 24, 2024 – Hughes Federal Credit Union announced its recognition in Forbes' 2024 Best-In-State Credit Unions list.

Forbes' seventh annual ranking, conducted with market research firm Statista, surveyed approximately 26,000 U.S. residents. Participants were asked to name their banks and credit unions and to evaluate them based on customer satisfaction, willingness to recommend, customer service quality, financial advice, fee structures, ease of use of digital and in-person services, and overall trust. Recent data and feedback from current customers were given more weight in the analysis.

Andrew Britton, President and CEO of Hughes Federal Credit Union, expressed his gratitude for this recognition, attributing it to the credit union's member-centric approach. "This honor means a lot to us because it comes from our members' voices. Their trust and satisfaction are our greatest rewards, and this recognition reflects our deep commitment to supporting their financial well-being every step of the way."

For more than 72 years, Hughes has been offering a full range of financial products and services tailored to meet the unique needs of its members. As one of the only financial institutions in the country that doesn't switch loan rates based on a qualified buyer's credit score, Hughes offers one low rate for everyone. These services include savings and checking accounts and financial education programs aimed at helping members achieve their financial goals.
